

and it is on line 12 where it says, "or technique". Now I have been thinking about the American Civil Liberties Union and I have been thinking about the people that periodically will march to Strategic Air Command and lock arms and knowingly enter into Strategic Air Command in order to voice their opinion against what they are designed to do. Now, in the past I recall that when these things happened sometimes the people that were there to demonstrate were dragged by the military police and put into cars and taken on to the base and then later released and then charged in court with civil disobedience. So my question is for Senator DeCamp or Senator Chambers, and if Senator DeCamp is here, he is opposed, I think, to Senator Chambers' amendment. I would like to know, or, Senator Hoagland, if this is your bill, you could answer it, or, no, it is Chizek's bill, I guess, Senator Chizek, if I would engage in teaching people the technique of demonstrating and fully with the intent of causing a civil disorder like I just described at SAC, now the people that are demonstrating haven't done a thing to harm anybody, but the military police have harmed them. The way this bill is written, as I see it, it is saying that you can't teach people that technique of demonstration somewhat similar to the type of demonstrations that Martin Luther King organized and I am sure that when he organized them he taught his people how to demonstrate, to lay down and to let them be clubbed by the police and dragged into paddy wagons or police cars. So, again, using the word "technique" in here, you are teaching someone the technique of how to demonstrate with the intent of causing a civil disorder which ultimately leads to making your point. How do you feel about that word then?

SENATOR CHIZEK: Senator Higgins, as I mentioned to you, I think the first of the week when we were talking, there is an amendment up there that we have agreed to that addresses that problem.

SENATOR HIGGINS: Oh, I thought you were talking about that other one where you were excluding certain...

SENATOR CHIZEK: No. In that phrase "or technique" is dealt with in that amendment.

SENATOR HIGGINS: Well, is "technique" considered part...is "technique" going to be taken out then?
